Hort. var. of Iris:

Because of the large number of horticultural varieties of Iris the hort. var. list and the common-name list have been combined in the special list following.

IRIS . . . *Iris*STATEMENT OF THE AMERICAN JOINT COMMITTEE

The Iris List, edited by John C. Wister was distributed in 1922 by the American Iris Society as Bulletin No. 4, in advance of the publication of Standardized Plant Names.

In that Bulletin the Iris names were separated into the groups or sections, with no less than twelve separate alphabetical lists. To the specialist or Iris devotee, this arrangement has obvious advantages. But it is a departure from the simple general rule established by the Joint Committee for Standardized Plant Names, namely, that each name list should be arranged in one alphabetical series. Any other arrangement for even a single list would at times leave the user of this book in uncertainty where to look for names, were they separated into special sections, whether for botanical, horticultural, or commercial reasons.

Therefore, with the consent of the American Iris Society, the American Joint Committee has rearranged the Iris List to conform to the alphabetical standard, and has revised the abbreviations. These follow each name (where the classification is known), so that each variety is readily referable to the special group or section to which it belongs.

One of the most serious difficulties the American Joint Committee has had to encounter is the duplication of names caused by the re-use of established names for new introductions, or, in some cases, the renaming of old varieties; in fact, these mischievous practices have caused a large part of the chaos in common names of plants which now exists in American horticulture. The duplications doubtless occur more as a result of ignorance than deliberate intent to deceive. The results, however, are pernicious, for the confusion increases yearly. The genus Iris is a conspicuous example of this bad practice. Therefore, to conform to the established and salutary rule of the American Joint Committee, it has been necessary either to omit such duplicated names or to print them in italics as unaccepted names. The American Iris Society has agreed to this procedure.

The Subcommittee of the American Joint Committee who edited this Iris manuscript wishes to go on record as of the belief that the use of many names in this Iris list, particularly Latin binomials and trinomials, which the American Iris Society insisted should be adopted as common names, could often have been replaced advantageously by more suitable English common names. For illustration a single example suffices: PSEUDACORUS FOLIIS VARIEGATIS for which the Subcommittee preferred the name VARIEGATED YELLOWFLAG, Yellowflag Iris being the common name of the species Iris pseudacorus.

STATEMENT OF THE AMERICAN
IRIS SOCIETY

This list includes, as far as possible, all species and varieties now in American commerce, usually classed under three main groups: Group I, Bearded Iris (Pogoniris); Group II, Beardless Iris (Apogon) and Crested Iris (Evansia); Group III, Bulbous and Miscellaneous

Iris; because these groups are distinct both botanically and horticulturally. These names are taken from the Checklist of the American Iris Society, seventh revision, December, 1921, with additions and corrections up to January, 1923, which gives all species and varieties that have been introduced into American commerce. For use in Standardized Plant Names this complete list has been shortened by omitting varieties now believed to be obsolete. Except for this omission, Group I is believed to be fairly complete. Many names have been shortened and a few have been changed to conform to the American Joint Committee's principles of nomenclature. Group II, especially as regards Japanese Iris (Iris kaempferi varieties), is not as complete as Group I. The present chaos in the nomenclature of these varieties is due to (1) the carelessness or unscrupulousness of certain Japanese nurserymen in sending out varieties incorrectly labeled; (2) the difficulty of spelling Japanese names; (3) the different translations of Japanese names in Europe and America; and (4) the common practice of rechristening Japanese varieties in Europe and America. To obviate the difficulties outlined in (2) the American Iris Society has authorized the registration of the names as translated in the present list. The names mentioned in (4), cannot be accepted because they differ in almost every nursery. Group III is far from complete.

The name of the originator and the date of introduction are given in parentheses where these facts have been ascertained. Sources of information are believed to be accurate but are not guaranteed.

EXPLANATION OF IRIS
CLASSIFICATION

The Irises in this list may be referred to three main groups, divided into twenty-one sections as follows:

GROUP I.

BEARDED IRIS (POGONIRIS)

This group, commonly but erroneously known as German Iris, comprises the well-known garden Irises derived from species from southern Europe and Asia Minor, some of them known in cultivation for more than two hundred years. The distinguishing characteristics are (1) the conspicuous beard on the lower petal, or fall; (2) a root which is a rhizome and which will stand long exposure to air and drought without injury, after the manner of bulbs. The plants of this group need well-drained soil and sunny exposure.

Classification and Abbreviations

DB. Dwarf Bearded Section. Species, forms and hybrids of Iris pumila, chamaeiris, aphylla, and other dwarf species.

IB. Intermediate Bearded Section. Hybrids between the Dwarf Bearded varieties mentioned above and the Tall Bearded varieties mentioned below, as well as some miscellaneous varieties, which are usually classed with them.

TB. Tall Bearded Section. Species, forms, and hybrids of Iris germanica, pallida, variegata, trojana, cypriana, and other tall species.

MB. Miscellaneous Bearded Section. Hybrids between the species of the sections Oncocyclus, Regelia, and Evansia, and species of the group Pogoniris. It includes also miscellaneous kinds that do not readily fall into the other sections.

GROUP II. BEARDLESS IRIS (APOGON)
AND CRESTED IRIS (EVANSIA)

This group is derived from species from Europe, Asia, and America, which, as a rule, prefer moist soils. The root is a rhizome, but fibrous, and, like most herbaceous plants, will not stand long exposure to air and drought. The leaves are more grass-like than those of Pogoniris, while the flower, as is indicated by the name, lacks the beard on the fall of the Pogoniris varieties.

Many names are printed in synonym type with no recommended name. This indicates that no authority for the use of this name has been found and that it is believed to be an old variety renamed, and that absolute identification is not possible at the present time, but it is hoped such identification can be given in the next edition of the list.

SPECIAL NOTE

It is realized that this list contains errors and omissions, and all persons receiving it are requested to check it over carefully and to send corrections or additions to the editor, so that a more authentic list can be published in the future. The names of species in black type, and of varieties in small capitals, have been accepted and given registration of name by the American Iris Society and by the American Joint Committee on Horticultural Nomenclature. No objection to the registration of any of the species or varieties in the list will be considered unless made within two months of the date of publication. Correspondence relating to this Iris List should be addressed to John C. Wister, Editor, Wister Street and Clarkson Avenue, Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa.

 The name I. florentina has been applied to various forms of Iris. According to the best botanical usage it is not a proper designation of any species of this genus. It is therefore treated here, as also in Bailey's Standard Cyclopaedia, as a horticultural variety of I. germanica, which together with I. pallida, is the source of the aromatic "orris root" of commerce. The name I. florentina is often misapplied also to I. albicans.
